

Sinclair Broadcasting plans to have their stations to broadcast an anti-Kerry documentary next week. Sinclair says this is a "news" broadcast. I disagree. I believe it's a blatant, biased move to broadcast a political "infomercial," days before the national presidential election.

Under the banner of a "free press," Sinclair is going to broadcast nationally a pure, political program.

This is an egregious example of how large media companies can promote a political agenda, and suppress a free and unbiased viewpoint on delivering the news. This is an example of one of the dangers of media consolidation. Sinclair's actions show that media ownership rules need strengthening, not weakening.

In addition, I believe that the FCC should put pressure on Sinclair NOT to air their infomercial next week. I believe that it violates the rules for political speech by television stations.
